In further reading the report I see that Eastern will lower residential rates by a few dollars based on how they calculate their Fixed Costs on the monthly water bill. Based on the information in the study, it further looks like they have a plan to lower residential water bills in the future (about 12 years) once infrastructure improvements are paid for. I found this on page 102. Given the information in the study, Eastern is the least expensive alternative for residents, gets done what needs to be done and should be given serious consideration for becoming our new water district.
